

Defeating the Monster

Where was I? I looked around me but there was only myself, standing there. I carried on walking on this dusty track. After a few minutes, I came to an old mill. I was so thirsty I thought there would be a river near the mill, but there was not one in sight. “How odd”, I thought, “no river.”

I kicked open the door and found a little dragon eating the foot of a human. “How dare you eat the foot of another human?” I picked up the carving knife, directed it at the dragon and lunged at the hideous creature.

Suddenly the dragon started to change. It had changed itself into a knight! “Wow!” I thought. The beast drew his sword and narrowly missed me by a millimetre. I ran up the stairs and accidentally ran onto the wheel that turns the ‘imaginary water’. Thankfully the armour weighed it down and it hit the floor with a tremendous thud!

I thought I must be the bravest boy in the world but I heard a voice saying, “well done, but I am going to have to kill you!...”
