

The Monster

I don't know how I did it. All I did was jump on its back.

It had been staring at me with its giant yellow eyes; white teeth bared and rose red blood dripping from its claws. I was as scared as a spider in the bath.

Quickly, it swiped. I leapt using all four of my nimble limbs, it missing my bottom right leg by a millimetre. I landed on a furry black head. Swiftly, I rushed onto its flaky back and laid some eggs while it's claws were swiping at me from all directions.

Weak from effort I jumped using the last pocket of strength I had. It started to roll around frantically itching all over...

How did I do it?